

The Washington wire tells me the House Ways & Means Committee has approved a bill to extend the withholding tax to corporate dividends and interest, and to royalties.

As in the case of the withholding tax against salaries and wages it wouldn't be an increase over the existing tax schedule, but merely a program to make sure the government gets its money. Corporations would turn over to the government direct 20 per cent of dividend or interest disbursements, and these deductions would then be claimed by the individuals as payments on personal returns.

The idea, of course, is that the millions of small stockholders of the big corporations are thousands who conveniently forget to report little dividend checks when computing federal income tax; and it would be prohibitively costly for the government to run down each small account. Therefore the corporations will be asked to take on a new load of bookkeeping and tax-collecting for Uncle Sam.

It's not a very smart idea, nevertheless, and merely increases the scope of what is already a monumental injustice. I refer to the fact that taxing dividends received from a corporation which has already paid corporation income tax on profits is double taxation.

Business operations which involve payroll and equipment usually are incorporated. In the very nature of things, therefore, corporations produce vast tax revenue for the government because of the taxable salaries and wages paid to the people working for corporations.

Why tax them twice, then, when the owners of other forms of wealth with virtually no payroll at all are taxed but once?

The politicians are very zealous about following up this scheme of double-taxation, but the same House Ways & Means Committee which approved the 20 per cent withholding tax on corporation dividends reversed itself about applying the same rule to co-operatives and voted to exempt them from reporting refunds made to their members.

I have always believed certain types of co-operatives have a place in the American free enterprise system, and I have supported them all the years I have been a newspaper editor. But on tax matters all citizens and all enterprises should stand equal under the law.

A private enterprise-for-profit must pay federal income tax whether it plows back its profits into expansion of the business or actually distributes those profits in dividends.

The same rule should apply to a co-operative, whether it is using its surplus to build up its operating capital or distributing that surplus in refunds to its members.

These are burdensome times for millions of small people. I know, because I see the amount of the withholding tax deducted from payroll checks to the people working for me. This burden belongs to all of the American people — and the action of the Ways & Means Committee in proposing to exempt co-operatives is a political fraud against the other property owners and all the working class of our country.

103-Year-Old War Veteran Dies

Russellville, June 13 — (AP) — A 103-year-old veteran of the war between the states — John G. Chisum — is dead, leaving only one ex-Confederate soldier in Arkansas.

Chisum died at his home in Camp Viator, a Pope county community near Russellville, Monday night. His death cut to 11 the surviving Confederate veterans. One, W. M. Loudermilk, of Jonesboro, lives in Arkansas. Chisum served in Jackson county, near Newport during the war. Born in Izard county, he spent the latter part of his life around Ben Hise near the Pope-Newton county line.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Sally Gonyea, three sons and four daughters. Funeral services will be Thursday at Boyd cemetery north of Hector, Ark.

Medal of Honor for GI Who Saved Pals

Washington, June 13 — (AP) — The Medal of Honor has been awarded in death to Capt. John W. Collier, 31, of Worthington, Ky., who snatched a grenade to save the lives of fellow soldiers in Korea. Collier, a member of the 27th regiment of the 25th division, was killed last Sept. 19 after he had wiped out an enemy machine gun nest blocking the advance of his company.

Earl Collier of Worthington, his father, will receive the nation's highest military award on behalf of his son at a ceremony here June 21. It will be presented by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

The award to Col. Collier is the 15th given an army man in Korea. One navy sailor lived to receive the Medal of Honor as well as a number of army aviators.

Demolition Unit to Look Over Shells in SPG

Captain Stovall, Camp Chaffee, Ordnance office, is sending a demolition and ordnance expert to Hope, possibly on Friday of this week, to examine the reported shells and live looking explosives in and coming out of the old Southwestern Proving Ground.

This grows out of the inspection trip made by Troy Repler, Little Rock Engineer's office, and a letter written to the Commanding General, U. S. Fourth Army, by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Royce Weisenberger plus the work of Sheriff Claude Sutton and Chief Deputy Sheriff Allen Shipp.

The Korean situation makes it impossible to send regularly to Hope a demolition team and the Army is doing this especially because the possible danger to the public arising from the digging up of shells in the old Proving Ground.

Mr. Repler is having the fence around the "restricted area" repaired. Persons are warned that entrance therein can subject them to prosecution, to say nothing of possible death from an explosion.

Persons plowing up or digging in lands not sold for surface use only are warned to be very careful not to move any objects of possible explosive nature, from these lands onto the roads or lands of others.

Bill Orton to Continue Studies in Paris, France

William R. Orton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Orton, Sr., 605 Beach Street, Little Rock, has been awarded a Fulbright Grant for post-doctoral study according to a telegram received here today. Dr. Orton, who completed the requirements for the Ph. D. in Mathematics at the University of Illinois this spring, will take advanced training in a highly specialized field of mathematics at the Sorbonne University in Paris, France.

Dr. Orton is a graduate of Gulf Park Military Academy and received his Bachelor's degree from the University of Arkansas. He took both his Master's and Ph. D. from the University of Illinois. Its Not Likely U. S. Will Have a Bureau of Love in All the Red Tape of Our Time

By HAL BOXLEY
New York — (AP) — Should the American government have a department of romance? Do we need a U. S. bureau of love?

There are millions of single people living in this country, and what is congress doing about getting them together? Nothing. It doesn't even pay a bounty to people who want to get married. Yet if government is going to enter every other branch of human activity, shouldn't it do something about love? Isn't love the biggest welfare project of all?

The suggestion for a federal matrimonial bureau comes from a reader, George Durst of Jamaica, N. Y. He believes it might be one of the few branches of government able to pay its own way.

"For a reasonable fee of $5.00 including the romance tax," Durst wrote, "it could register all sincere, marriage-minded men and women and publish their descriptions in a monthly federal matrimonial bulletin."

Durst says the U. S. government printing office already sells bulletins "on such vital topics as the love life of polar bears." And if it is willing to help single polar bears, he feels it should extend the same courtesy to single people particularly wealthy spinsters.

"Such a plan would inspire the older girls — mature women — to realize that they can't take it with them, so why let the income tax man grab it?" Durst added. "Many of these mature women can afford to own a husband today, and use him as a practical income tax deduction as well as a source of love."

Merchants Urged to Display Flags on Flag Day

National Commander Eric Coker, Jr. has called on the 17,314 posts of the American Legion to go all out in mobilizing their communities for flying Old Glory on Flag Day, Thursday, June 14.

Many new flags have been purchased by downtown merchants through the local American Legion post which now urges them to display Thursday in observance of Flag Day.

"Let the world know all America stands resolutely, shoulder-to-shoulder behind our flag in defense of American freedom and human liberty," E. P. Young, Jr., member of the local post urged today.

Clothing Price Slash Looms, DiSalle Says

Denver, June 13 (AP) — Price Stabilization Boss Michael DiSalle said today a new clothing price formula to be issued shortly will force many in a u f a c turers to trim their prices.

In an interview shortly after his arrival here by air to participate in a Denver university citizens' conference on government, DiSalle said the order before he left Washington.

"It will come out in a day or so," he said, "it will cover all lines of wearing apparel."

DiSalle said the new apparel manufacturers formula will work this way: A manufacturer will take any three consecutive months in the year before the outbreak of the Korean hostilities. He will use the average price he charged during the months as a base. Then he will add actual increases in costs of labor and materials, particularly wool. The total will be his ceiling price.

"Some manufacturers have gone beyond actual cost increases in their price increases," DiSalle said. "They'll have to cut back." DiSalle expressed a general satisfaction with progress in curbing inflation. He said the OPS is "far ahead" of where the World War II OPA was at a comparable time.

He declared again that the government doesn't intend to back down on its much attacked beef price rollbacks. He said an increase in cattle receipts at the nation's major stockyards yesterday was "a pretty good indication" but added that it was too early to tell what the ultimate market effect will be.

Committees Are Named for Melon Festival

Watermelon Festival
Plans for the Hempstead county Watermelon Festival, scheduled to be held in Hope on July 25th were advanced at the recent meeting of the Program Committee.

From all indications there will be a full day of activity which will cater to the fancies of all whether their particular liking be sports, dancing, music, ogling the queens, or just plain old eating of that delicious world-famous watermelon.

The Watermelon Festival, a Hope institution, was reviewed last year on a county-wide basis by the people of Patmos under the leadership of SWAP and current plans are to make it once again a yearly event, holding the actual festival in various parts of the county from year to year. This year the program is assigned to Hope, and the program will be under the general sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. President Mike Kelley has announced the following committees to serve in their respective capacities this year.

Program: Lyle Brown, Chr., Mike Kelley, Herbert Burns.

Finance: Frank McLarty, Chr., Guy Bayse, Robert LaGrone, Lloyd Spencer.

Watermelon Purchase: Paul McClellan, Chr.

Parade March: Buddy Evans Bands: Mrs. Cline Franks, Chr. Exhibits: Ben Owens, Chr.

Queens Contest: Hope B & P W Club.

Publicity and Advertising: Charles A. Armitage, Chr., Henry Haynes, Paul Jones, Don Miller, L. B. Tooley.

Executive Chairman: Royce Weisenberger, Dewey Baber.

Concessions: Harry Hawthorne, Chr.

Californian Wins Chicken Championship

Fayetteville, June 13 (AP) — An undisputed leadership in poultry breeding was established today when Charles Vantrees of Live Oak, Calif., won the national title.

His 400 heavybreasted entries which bettered flocks of 30 other breeders from coast to coast, were the same breed with which his cantress poultry breeding farm won the first national contest three years ago — a California Cornish New Hampshire cross.

This was the second triennial contest. The Vantrees crossbred birds averaged 4.27 pounds at 12 weeks of age. Normally it takes 14 to 16 weeks to produce chickens weighing two or three pounds, contest officials said.

The winner Friday will be awarded $5,000 first prize money by the A. & P. food stores, which joined with the University of Arkansas and the U. S. department of agriculture to sponsor the contest.

The contest is designed to produce a better meat-type chicken in less time.

Contest sponsors said meat-type chickens have been coming to market so far this year at the rate of about 8,000,000 compared to 610,000,000 in 1950. About 70 per cent of these, they said, were descendants of chicken-of-tomorrow contest flocks competing in 41 states. Winners of state contests were eligible to enter the national breeding competition.

Second place went to the Nichols poultry farm of King'ston, N. H., whose flock reared less than two points fewer than the Vantrees entry.

Other winners in the order in which they were ranked: Walter F. Lewis and Ellery Metcalf, Chelmsford, Mass.; Wilford's Hatchery, Elyria, Ohio; Mt. Norwottuck Hatchery, Amherst, Mass.; Winthrop W. Pyatt, Farmington, Conn.; Western Hatchers, Dallas, Tex., and Townsend's Inc., Millsboro, Del.

PSC Sets Hearing for Freight Hike

Little Rock, June 13 — (AP) — The Arkansas public service commission has scheduled for July 8 a hearing on an application of railroads operating in the state for a two per cent interstate freight rate increase.

A similar increase in interstate rates has been approved by the interstate commerce commission.

Rotation Sends Hope Soldier Home and Takes Brother

Pfc. John Alvin Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson, Sr., of Hope Rt. 4, has arrived home for 30 days leave from Korea. He is the first in Hempstead to be sent home on the new rotation system.

He wears the Korean campaign ribbon with three battle stars. He enlisted here Sept. 18, 1940 and landed in Korea July 18, 1950. He left Korea May 21, 1951.

Ironically about the same time he was leaving Korea his brother, James M. Anderson, was arriving in the battle area. He will report to Camp Chaffee on expiration of his leave.

Armitage and Gentry File for Office

Two candidates filed for office today following a meeting yesterday in which the Democratic Central Committee fixed fees and election dates.

Charles A. (Chuck) Armitage announced his candidacy for mayor and W. C. (Bill) Gentry, filed for alderman of Ward 1.

The Democratic Central Committee issued a notice of a primary election as follows:

An elimination primary election is hereby called to be held in the following cities and towns, Hope, Oakhaven, Fulton, Ozan, Elvins, Washington, McCaskill in Hempstead county on the 31 day of July 1951, and a regular primary election is hereby called to be held in said cities and towns on August 4, 1951 for the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for:

Mayor, Municipal Judge, City Treasurer and four aldermen for the City of Hope and for nominating the candidates for the various offices of the other towns. The proclamation is signed by H. B. Barr, Chairman of the Democratic Central Committee and Lotus Crain secretary.

Thousands of Beaten Chinese Stream North

Tokyo, June 13 — (AP) — Thousands of beaten Reds streamed northward in Korea today as United Nations forces cornered communist troops over their abandoned "iron triangle."

Killed tanks and men spilled over the flat lands north of Chongwon and Kumhwa. They made good advances toward Pyongyang, the northernmost point of the island. But censor would not permit respondents to mention the advances.

The big Red withdrawal was in the wild, rugged country east of the triangle. North Koreans swept up the mountain trails in groups ranging from a few hundred to more than a thousand.

Smaller Red forces covered retreat. They slowed advance of U. N. infantrymen in "bounding battles" over the ridges stretching north of the Hwachon reservoir eastward toward the sea of Japan.

The fifth air force sent nearly 300 fighters to the mountain ridges. The pilots burned the Reds out with fire bombs and blasted them with explosives.

Largest engagement reported Wednesday was fought by South Koreans moving up the east coast north of Chongwon against an estimated 1,000 Reds. On the night, tanks and artillery were used to break through the Red lines.

U. N. officers said the only significant action was the Red withdrawal behind the cover of mountain defenses.

The mountain warfare was a uniform pattern, bombing ridges to ridges.

Refusal to Sell Power to P & L

The commission's refusal to sell power to P & L is a blow to the company's plans to build a large power plant at Norfolk, Va.

Refusal on proposed construction of a non-operative electrical project. Pittman said A. P. & L. is prepared to enter a long-term contract for purchasing of Norfolk's "peaking" power at 7.5 mills per kilowatt hour. The private firm now is restricted to 20,000 kilowatts at Norfolk's production.

Norfolk dam is on the north fork of the White river in north Arkansas. Pittman was one of three witnesses who reappeared for cross-examination on their opposition to the construction of a steam generating plant at Clark by the Arkansas Electric Co-operative corporation.

Representatives of private firms have denied this. Codfish often kill and eat lobsters.

Economists Hack at Labor Department

Washington, June 13 — (AP) — A senate economy bloc triumphant in its initial efforts plans to hack away further today at a battered $2,528,338,000 labor department-federal security agency money bill.

The biggest proposed cuts in the measure still are pending. The economy group secured adoption yesterday by a decisive 58 to 24 vote of its chief objective — a ten per cent cut in the two agencies' payrolls in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The ten per cent reduction in all personnel items was written into the labor-federal security measure in an amendment sponsored by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.). It cut the President's budget for the items by $11,700,000.

Ferguson plans to offer the same cut to all of the 11 remaining fiscal 1952 regular funds bills with the possible exception of the defense department bill. The labor-federal security measure is the first one to come before the senate this year.

If applied across the board to all agencies, the amendment would affect about 240,000 federal jobs. There now are more than 2,400,000 U. S. civilian employees. Ferguson estimated the money savings of a ten per cent cut in all agencies would run between $500,000,000 and $800,000,000. He said it was impossible to give an exact figure because there would be employees were not included in the cut in the federal-labor-federal security bill.

Twenty-one Democrats, including Chairman McCellar (D-Tenn.) of the appropriations committee, joined with 37 Republicans to put over the Ferguson amendment. Only two Republicans, Senators Cordon (Ore) and Aiken (Vt) voted against it.

Senator Douglas, (D-Ill), another lead in the drive, has proposed three amendments to knock $32,000,000 more out of the bill. The reductions would include $20,000,000 in grants to states for hospital construction, $9,000,000 in grants to needy school districts in defense areas, and $3,000,000 in grants to states for maternal and child welfare.

Douglas also seeks to whittle down the 26 days of annual vacation have granted federal employees to 20 days and the 15-day annual sick leave privilege to 12. Before the senate voted the ten per cent personnel cut it rejected, 54 to 28, a move to make

Young Wife Visits Husband in Korea

Tokyo, June 13 — (AP) — The young wife of a British army captain, with an enterprising which will make her the envy of many an army wife, spent three days with her husband near the fighting front in Korea.

Pretty Mrs. Benita Lasseter, 27, mother of a seven-year-old son, willingly acknowledged she had made the unauthorized journey. But she would not tell how because she did not want to "kick up a fuss" for others involved. She probably hitchhiked plane rides both ways. She returned today.

Her husband is Capt. Matthew Lasseter, 28, of the Northumberland Fusiliers, an army regular for 10 years. Mrs. Lasseter came here from her home at Roque Brune, southern France, and saw him five or six days in Tokyo in May.

After he returned to the front, she wanted to see him again before she goes home. She was in Korea four days but it took one day to get the word to her husband. "A friend put us up," she said, but she wouldn't elaborate. "We went for walks and I saw many friends."

No one, apparently, told her to leave. "They all seemed to think it was jolly fun."

U of A Instructor Dies in Alabama

Aniston, Ala., June 12 — (AP) — Col. George C. Nielsen, professor of history at Jacksonville State Teachers college and a former instructor at the University of Arkansas, died last night at a Gadsden hospital.

He had been ill for about two weeks an underwent an operation at the hospital. Burial will be in the National cemetery at Fayetteville, Ar. The date has not been announced.

Colonel Nielsen was an ROTC instructor at the University of Arkansas for four years just prior to World War Two. He came to Fort McClellan the reduction 15 per cent.

The lawmakers also adopted an amendment by Ferguson to eliminate all funds for chauffeurs in the labor-federal security bill and another by Douglas to eliminate authorizations for 79 new automobiles. Ferguson said he would try to abolish the jobs of all the 7,000 chauffeurs in non-defense agencies.

Says Shooting Was in Self Defense

San Luis Obispo, Calif., June 1 — (AP) — Mrs. Margaret G. Ryan's plea that she shot a trespasser in self-defense was to be laid before a grand jury today.

The wealthy widow was arraigned on a corner's warrant — a formality — yesterday after a coroner's jury called the shooting Sturday of Leonard D. Ray, 22, "unjustifiable homicide." Justice Paul Jackson released her on her own recognizance.

No charges were filed. District Attorney Hervert C. Grundell said he would ask the grand jury whether charges should be filed against the 42-year-old widow of a grandson of the late financier Thomas Fortune Ryan.

Mrs. Ryan said Ray, a navy veteran, threatened her with a .22 rifle when she asked him to leave her ranch. He was crossing the ranch enroute to fish. Mrs. Ryan testified: She picked up a .38 caliber pistol because "I felt he (Ray) was dangerous or unbalanced."

here in 1944 as post commander and served there until his retirement more than a year later. He returned to Fayetteville for about two years following his retirement and was a leader in civic affairs. He then became professor of history at Jacksonville State Teachers.

Many Garment Workers Go on Strike

New York, June 12 — (UP) — Thousands of garment workers went on strike today and stilled large sections of the usually bustling garment district. It was the first major strike in 25 years against the city's biggest industry.

Sixty-five thousand members of the International Ladies Garment Workers union were on strike against 2,000 shops making women's and children's coats and suits in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. The shops closed and there was no picketing.

Charging that four employer associations had reneged on two major agreements tentatively approved in contract talks, union officials ordered members not to work until continuing talks settled the dispute.

Brunt of the walkout hit Manhattan's crowded, tangled garment district, just south of Times Square, where more than two-thirds of the strikers work in towering "loft" buildings.

Ordered to stay at home, many employees gathered in quiet groups, conferences between union and employer representatives began this morning and were expected to last all day.

The walkout, ordered yesterday just as both sides were set to approve a new contract, halted production on fall lines of women's and children's suits and coats, skirts, and some sports wear. Dresses were not affected.

Question Up on What Red Points to Bomb

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, June 12 (AP)—What Chinese Communist bases might be bombed if the ban against attacks on targets beyond the North Korean boundary should be removed?

The question is posed by the assertion yesterday by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer that the ban is an "unfair restriction" and "unrealistic."

President Truman opposes bombing Manchuria and China because he says it involves the risk of starting a general war. But he also said in his April 11 speech that it may well be the Communists themselves who spread the war. This has been interpreted as referring to a notification to the United Nations that if mass attacks are made by the Red Air force American bombers will strike across the Yalu river boundary.

In much of the testimony before the two senate committees investigating the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and in debate elsewhere the reference usually has been to bombing "bases." But bases, in the literal military sense, probably would be only one type of target. Wedemeyer's choice of words to the inquiry group opposite that. He spoke of hitting places "where the enemy was gathering together his strength."

An enemy gathers his strength in two ways: By assembling and which they are moved to the battle front; by producing and transporting munitions for use at the front. The destruction of an enemy's means to wage war is strategic air warfare, sustained attack by bomber forces. But it usually involves, also, tactical operations strikes against forward airfields and similar base.

Published information and available maps make reasonably evident some of the types of targets and places that would be hit should the Reds ignore the warning and launch large air attacks on U. N. ground forces.

Airfields would be high on the priority list. Fighter bases, like the strips near Antung, just across the Yalu river in Manchuria, would have to be "taken out" first. They base the Mig 15 jets which would be used as interceptors to prevent strategic bombing attacks on transportation and in the Chinese mainland. Farther back, at such places as Anshan, are Red air force bomber fields where, presumably, medium bombers and perhaps four-engined planes are based.

Of equal importance to the destruction of airfields and planes is the blocking of the sources of production and the routes over which fuel is moved for planes and other convoys. China has no big oil production source, but some petroleum is produced from shale in southern Manchuria. It must be assumed, however, that the bulk of petroleum used by the enemy in the Korean war comes from sources outside either Red China or North Korea.

DOROTHY DIX Cruel Family

Dear Miss Dix: Several years ago I made a mistake for which I have paid dearly, and am still paying with a broken heart and bad memories. Against the advice of my family, I married a worthless man who betrayed my love and made a fool of me.

I have one sister, four years younger than I, who seems to think that because she has made a happy marriage she is much better than I. The rest of my family acts the same way, too. I came back to them after my marriage broke up, but they refuse to forgive me or offered any signs of love and affection. I thought a family should stick together especially when one member is in trouble, but my people don't seem to think that way. Is it my fault alone?

Answer: Your sister had better be careful how she deals out her judgments. Such things have an unpleasant habit of returning home to roost. The fact that she has been fortunate enough to make a good marriage does not give her the right to put on a holier-than-thou attitude to a sister who has already had a difficult time of it.

You're on Your Own
You might as well face the fact, Corinne that you're not going to get much comfort from your family, and begin to build a new life by your self. Perhaps they're afraid you're going to sit around them weeping and pining. As soon as you show that you can stand on your own feet, your sister's estimation may change.

And if it doesn't you will at least convince yourself that you can be independent, financially and socially. Don't live in the past. The future can be as bright as you make it, but don't be so trusting the next time you fall in love.

You'll do much better to make a new start away from your family. They'd never stop saying "I told you so" (the sorriest words of tongue or pen), opening old wounds and reminding you of the past. What you need more than anything else is to forget what has happened and can't be undone. Face the future with a firm step and a broad smile. When you're back on top, that family of yours will be delighted to welcome you with open arms.

CORINNE

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I get a man I like interested in me, and keep him coming back? This man I speak of took me out several times, but it has now been six weeks since our last date and I don't see him two or three times a week during business hours he hasn't asked me out again. He doesn't go steady with anyone, but keeps taking different girls out. He is 30-years-old and I am 38. He claims he doesn't want to get interested in any one woman because for family reasons, he doesn't want to marry. Well, I have a good job and am not interested in getting married either. What shall I do?

Answer: Your friend is just afraid of being driven to the altar, like confirmed bachelors his age. Are you being strictly frank when you say you aren't interested in marriage? Perhaps unwittingly you had a gleam of wedding-bands in your eye and your friend shied off. Women are possessive creatures, and after even a few dates are apt to feel ownership over a man. Even the most tentative string cannot be attached to a 30-year-old bachelor without him knowing all about it and resenting it.

Remember he's old enough to know all the tricks of Eve and won't be caught by any of them. When you have a chance to talk to him again perhaps you can convince him that you're just as disinterested in marriage and being tied down as he is. If he knows there are no obligations to be incurred by taking you out, I'm sure he'll go back to dating.

Dear Miss Dix: I was married only six months when my child was born. Shortly after, my husband left me. When my son is old enough, should he be told the truth And if I ever have an opportunity to remarry, should I tell the man?

Answer: Don't go around inflating your mistakes on other people. You did get married, so your baby is legitimate, which is the important thing. Keep your own counsel about the details, both with your son and with any future husband you may acquire.

Actor Irked Over Friendly Game

Hollywood June 12 — (AP) — "Bah! A lot of foolish nonsense" monickered Charles Coburn said today of his citation for a friendly game of poker with the boys. But the academy award winning actor said his lawyer will represent him in Beverly Hills justice court tomorrow in the "peekaboo" poker skid case.

Deputies noticed the lights burning early Sunday morning at the Players Club West room and peeked in the windows. The said they heard poker talk.

"Some busybody probably complained because we were playing after midnight," said the 72-year-old Coburn. "Who wants to play poker before 12 o'clock?"

His partners were Producers Paul A. Malvern 48 and Howard S. Benedict 49 and Writers Paul A. Yawitz 50 and Morrie Ryskind 55.

Coburn said the five have been getting together in a friendly game for years and no money was involved.

The deputies said they violated a county anti-gambling ordinance. Shorted Coburn:

Can you beat this measure of car value?

Of standard-built cars used as taxicabs, there are far more Plymouths than any other make...in fact, there are more Plymouths than all other makes combined!

Those who own taxicabs are experts on car value. They have to be! Their very living depends on their judgment in selecting the right car.

This selection is not made on "hunch" or "sentiment" or loyalty to any make.

In the cold light of fact, taxicab owners test all makes of cars for everything—roominess, riding comfort, handling ease, braking action, maintenance cost, day-and-night dependability—everything!

As the result of these continuous tests, the overwhelming majority of taxicab owners say: "The car for our money is Plymouth!"

Isn't this pretty convincing proof? Plymouth is the car for your money. But you don't have to take anyone else's word for it. You can find out for yourself. Will gladly arrange a demonstration. Then you can put the Plymouth in your own tests and see for yourself.

Plymouth is the car for your money.

Accused
Schlesinger was arrested last night after Justice of the Peace Rudolph Antonetti.

In the last two weeks Schlesinger has been cited twice for contempt of court by Judge Michael A. Musmanno. The judge said Schlesinger refused to answer whether he is a Communist. Schlesinger appeared to the state supreme court which threw out the case, describing Musmanno's actions as "deplorable."

MINISTER'S WIFE TELLS HOW HADACOL WAS SO HELPFUL

HADACOL Helps Folks With Weak, Run-Down Conditions, Poor Appetite, When Caused by Deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron

A weak, run-down condition can make life really drag for folks who feel that way. Imagine not having a good appetite. Loss of strength and energy often accompany this condition. When Mrs. Longaker, a minister's wife, lives at 11 S. Meadowbrook, North Kansas City, Mo., she is feeling that way she began taking HADACOL. As she had heard how helpful it was to people with weak, run-down conditions, and poor appetite, when due to a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron. Now Mrs. Longaker says she feels good and is recommending HADACOL to her friends.

"I am a minister's wife and am 45 years old. I was run-down, lost weight, was listless, and had no appetite at all. I'm on my fifth bottle now and am amazed at the results. I want to eat all the time now, and I'm glad to say, I've gained several pounds. HADACOL has helped me believe almost anyone can afford it, and I do recommend it to my friends."

HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the REAL CAUSE of weak, run-down conditions, stomach distress, nervousness, poor appetite and nagging aches and pains when due to the lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron in the system.

AND LISTEN TO THIS! Continued use of this great HADACOL not only gives continuous complete relief, but helps keep such painful conditions from returning. Now you can be the kind of person you have been waiting for. That's the kind of relief you should buy and start taking at once.

And HADACOL's wonderful Vitamins and Minerals come in special pleasant liquid form so they are quickly absorbed and assimilated in the blood, ready to go to work at once.

HADACOL IS SO EFFECTIVE because HADACOL helps build the hemoglobin content of your blood (when iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ and to every part of your body.

You may have tried other Vitamin preparations or other Vitamins and Mineral preparations, so we make you this offer. Try a bottle of HADACOL today. You be the judge. If you do not believe that HADACOL is the best Vitamin and Mineral preparation you have ever taken, we will gladly send you back your money. That's our positive money-back guarantee.

So be fair to yourself. Don't go through life suffering from these conditions when caused by lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Nicotin and Iron, when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drug store.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES There's only one HADACOL. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee.

Sold at all drug stores. Trial size, $1.25, but buy the large family-size, only $3.50.

THE FROM? OR ID LOVE TO GO

It's important in a young life to have a telephone. It's the "key" to the world in value.

When you go along with the team, you're a part of the value. But fact remains, a telephone call, important or ordinary, is a fact of life.

For the average cost of each local call, including the cost of the call itself, is about $1.00.

MISS DOTTE silenced the buzz of enjoyable horror by saying commendably, "You may put on your mascara now, class. I'll come around in a few minutes to check, and I do not want to see smears, so work carefully and quietly."

Miss Dotte got a white bottle out of the supply cabinet, came over to Paris, and said in a conspiratorial voice, "This stuff will cover up most of it. You'd better put some on quick, in case Meadows pops in." She shook the bottle. "We had a Hollywood client taking a private course, and she got a terrible shiner after—uh—anyway, we put on this camouflage base before she went on a television show, and you couldn't notice a thing."

"No kidding?" Paris said. "I sure hope it goes away before graduation," Miss Dotte went on, still in the un-Glamour Guide voice. "Because you're the most photogenic one we've got."

Paris, who responded to genuine friendliness as she responded to food, was already looking more cheerful. She applied the liquid, which had the consistency of milk of magnesia, to the sponge. "Well, here goes," Lucilla and Mrs. Colps watched as she dabbed her eye socket and lid, and smoothed out the liquid at the edges. Occasionally they glanced at each other, signaling, Shall we ask her what happened? Finally Mrs. Colps burst out, "Was Harry annoyed—I mean about the mink?"

"I wouldn't let that louse give me a mink if he was the last guy on Broadway," Paris said. "But wasn't that what made him—uh—Mrs. Colps' voice trailed off helplessly, as she looked at the black eye.

"No," Paris said. "I was sore at him." Her friends looked bewildered. "You wanna know why?" Lucilla nodded with ladylike restraint, but she listened as eagerly as Mrs. Colps. "First I hadn't slept and watch him stuff himself with noodle soup and sauerbraten and cheese cake," Paris said somberly. "Then he orders a cold-pork sandwich with pickallil relish and he won't even give me a bite. 'Not till you get your diploma,' he says. So naturally I call him a few names, and he sticks the sandwich right up in my face and says, 'Smell.' Then I swing at him, and he put up his other hand and catches me in the eye."

She added darkly, "You shouldn't have hit him after I really got going. There was pickallil all over his shirt."

BY noon of the next day, Harry still hadn't shown up. Paris, sitting on the steps outside the East-Beauty bar with Lucilla, bit into a Laxa biscuit and said thickly, "Men! They're all skunked!" Lucilla said rather pontifically, "You can't judge every man by Harry."

"There's worse guys than Harry. Take this Colps. If ever a guy sounded like a louse, it's him." Lucilla admitted he did. "But why did she marry him in the first place?" "That's a dumb thing to say," Paris said her dark glasses down on her nose, to stare reprovingly out of the camouflaged eye. "Maybe she was crazy about him."

"But now that she knows what he's like—imagine having a husband who stays out all night?" Paris snorted. "You mean yours never did?" Lucilla said indignantly of course not.

"How come you never talk about him much? I figured you two weren't getting along so good." Lucilla said quickly that wasn't it at all.

"Then why've you been giving the eye to that jerk Marlowe?" Lucilla was so startled that she blurted out, "He's not a jerk." Recovering, she added, "He simply happens to be an intelligent person who's interested in books and theater, as I am."

"Take it from me, he's a jerk. And watch out for that book stuff. I had one old goat kept askin' me to come up to his place and see a rare Bible. 'What's so rare about a Bible?' I asks him. 'They got one in every hotel room.'"

"There are men who enjoy a woman's intellectual companionship," Lucilla intoned from her pulpit of superiority.

"Maybe," Paris appeared dubious. "But if this Derek Marlowe starts that schmooze about spending a quiet little evening alone—just the two of you—with his television set..."

Lucilla said triumphantly that Derek loathed television. Paris waved this aside. "Okay, then, his etchings or his record collection." She saw her companion's expression.

With great dignity, and even condescension, Lucilla explained about "Finnegan's Wake." "It's hardly the sort of thing a man would use for bait. In fact, I'd been wanting very much to hear it, and Mr. Marlowe was nice enough to say I could stop by his apartment sometime and..."

"Stop by?" Paris exclaimed. "That's what they always say. At least Harry isn't the kind of guy who pulls that book-and-record stuff."

Lucilla was resentful of the idea. When she finally managed to get away, she hurried to class without even glancing, en route, at the fire escape where Derek often stood to have a cigarette.

She didn't see him till the end of the afternoon, in the downstairs corridor. He looked so handsome with his hat on that her ribs tightened with pleasure. Derek glanced over to make sure the elevator operator had withdrawn into her cage and risen, before he said, "What a charming surprise, darling."

Washington, June 13 —(AP)—Improved crop weather has given whiskey distillers at least another month of freedom from a possible government order restricting their use of grain.

When wheat crop prospects turned downward early in the spring due to drought, the agriculture department started work on an order which would have limited use of grains for distilled spirits.

A similar order was issued during World War II to conserve grain for food and livestock feed uses.

But an improvement in wheat conditions in May and early June has led officials to lay the proposed order aside to await grain crop development.

Belgium's foreign minister, Paul Van Zeeland, has proposed a meeting of the 12 Atlantic pact foreign and defense ministers sometime this summer, preferably in July.

Diplomatic sources told a reporter today Van Zeeland wants quick action on (1) whether Greece and Turkey are to be brought into the alliance, as informally advocated by the United States; and (2) whether Western Germany is to contribute to the proposed mutual defense force and, if so, how.

The Atlantic pact council last met in Brussels in December of 1950. The 12 foreign and defense ministers then agreed to set up an integrated defense force commanded by Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Twenty-eight jurors out of a hastily-summoned new panel of 80 were excused yesterday for reasons of health work or scruples against the death penalty. Two of those excused are Negroes.

The new panel was called after Superior court excused the regular panel last week on a defense contention that it did not represent a true racial cross-section. Four Negroes and three Mexican-Americans were in the new panel.

Russia Ignores Protest of New Ruling

Berlin, June 13 —(AP)—Ignoring Allied protests, the Russians turned back hundreds of West Berlin export shipments today in a move which threatened to become an economic blockade of this Soviet-surrounded city.

Western Allied officials talked of shutting off vital supplies to East Germany in retaliation, if the Russians refused to yield.

"But we are still hopeful," one high American official said. "We are just sitting tight waiting for a Russian reply to our protest."

The protest was against the new Russian regulation requiring West Berlin manufacturers to show the origin of their strategic raw materials before they can ship their finished products through the Russian zone to the West.

France declared two days ago that the Russians had no right to demand such information and told the West German city government to refuse it.

Soviet authorities promptly rejected all export permits lacking the information they demanded and have so far ignored an Allied request for cancellation of the regulation.

American officials pointed out, however, that it usually takes several days for the Russians to answer such a protest and expressed hope that, when the answer comes, it will be favorable.

Douglas C. Black
Kiwanis Speaker

The Kiwanis Club in their regular meeting last Thursday evening at the Lawson Hotel, had as their speaker for the evening Douglas C. Black, newly appointed Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Black spoke briefly on the subject of "Citizenship" stressing the fact that as Secretary he is here to try to help us as citizens put on our program. He said good citizenship does not call for the Chamber of Commerce to be used as a political foot-ball. He also stressed the fact that being a good citizen called for the members of the Chamber of Commerce to study the program of our neighboring towns and pick out good points in their program that may be useful to us.

He paid a high compliment to the citizens of Prescott for their friendliness and said that in talking to business men in neighboring towns and cities they all unanimously agree that Prescott is a city of hospitality and friendliness.

This is Black's first appointment in Chamber of Commerce work. He comes to Prescott from Magnolia where he taught in the Southern State College in the field of Agriculture.
